

About the Toolbox

In the context of a worsening climate crisis, growing fascist and far-right movements, and increasing consolidation of corporate power, the UN Climate Change Conference (UNFCCC) 30th Conference of Parties (COP30), taking place in Belém, Brazil from November 6th to November 23rd, represents a turning point and key milestone for the engagement of climate and gender justice groups to demand real solutions to tackle the climate crisis.

This toolbox contains digital content in English, Spanish and French to reveal regressive climate outcomes from previous COP convenings alongside a one-stop reading list highlighting the exacerbation of climate disasters, loss of biodiversity and destruction of ecosystems, livelihoods and lives. The aim is to collectively strengthen feminist and social movements with data and information in the lead-up to COP30 to advocate for the urgency of peoples-led and rights-based climate solutions more than ever.

2 Oct	Since COP29, only $300 billion has been pledged in grants and low-interest loans when $1.3 trillion in grants is needed for climate funding. And while $2.7 trillion flows to military budgets annually, frontline communities fighting global climate crises receive crumbs. Read the statement written by 200+ organizations demanding COP30 kick out Big Polluters instead of inviting them to sponsor the very climate talks meant to phase them out – full statement via the link here / link in bio Learn more and take action! @escrnet @gagga_alliance @giescr @actionaid_international @apwld @noor.network_@wgc_climate @gender.ia @wise.nigeria @iwraw.ap @radd.2009 @masipagfarmer @unes.sv	Link
